TRANSATLANTIC EUROPE – CARIBBEAN

Adventure, discover, trade wind sailing

While winter is beginning in Europe, we make our way across the Atlantic to discover the Caribbean - always facing the sunset. You can join the adventure as a sailor you will be asked to assist in sail setting and other task on board , if you join as a crew member you will be assigned to a watch system and actively involved in life on board. On this trip, we sail the classic Atlantic route as it was done hundreds of years ago. With the NE-trade winds, we will only sail if possible. For this, we have taken more time in the route planning. If the wind is okay with us, we should arrive at our destinations a few days before. This means that you have time to discover the country, people, culture and highlights. You can either sail along the whole route or just a part of it

Adventure, Discover, Trade wind Sailing ...

Take a journey back in time to the era of the old windjammer and help Brigantine Florette across the Atlantic.

Experience when the mighty Brigantine Florette is almost silently moved by the force of the wind. Then you only hear the sound of the wind and the waves

We exclusively offer this cruise to only 20 voyage crew.

The remaining crew are full time crew, professional sailors, and a medical doctor. Experience the Atlantic with the Brigantine Florette from Gibraltar across the Canary Islands to Grenada.

The route follows in the footsteps of Columbus, who discovered the island in 1498. It is the traditional sailing route that sailing ships have used for centuries and follows the north-easterly trade winds.

From anchoring in secluded coves under a starry sky, possibly a short stop in small harbour villages on the Cape Verde Islands or Barbados, as well as staying in the cities of Gibraltar and Santa Cruz de Tenerife are part of this journey. Wind weather and time will decide our sailing route ...

Cargo Sail CARIBBEAN- EUROPE

An alternative journey March 21, 2020

A cargo sailing trip from Martinique, Dominica, Marie Gallant in the Caribbean making our way home to the Mediterranean. On the way back to Europe, Florette becomes what it was originally built for: a high-sea cargo sailing ship! With a precious cargo of rum and coffee, it will travel from Martinique back to Europe via the Azores in the North Atlantic in March.

Here too you can sail along ...

In two stages, we sail from Martinique, to the Azores in 29 days and from the Azores to Gibraltar in 10 days - for a total of 39 days and around 4000 nautical miles. An eventful stopover with a breather and a crew change for the second stage is planned for the Azores (Faial / Horta).

Adventure, discover, trade wind sailing ...

Highlights

- Active sailing on a 100-year-old windjammer
- Leave your everyday life completely behind you (digital detox)
- Blue water sailing means nature, stars and weather experience
- Route with good time buffer calculated to explore country and people

The route

Through the busy Gibraltar channel we leave the Mediterranean sea behind and set sail towards the Canary Islands . Now sailing the Atlantic you might see Whales. and quickly you will get used to your watch rotation. With 15 knots of wind, Florette should make 6-7 knots. To the Canary Island are 800 NM distance with a wind of 4 Beaufort we should reach it after 5 to 6 days the first Island. Depending on the weather, the time we make a stop in Lanzarote or Fuerteventura. Our next Port will be Santa Cruz on the island of Tenerife . Tenerife with it's 2 airports can easily be reached if you decide to join us in Tenerife.

When leaving Tenerife we will sail south to follow the NE trade winds. Depending on the weather maps, we are heading towards Cape Verde or towards the Caribbean.

November is the best month to make this Atlantic crossing but we will also experience rain, thunderstorms and gusts Wind. During the day, the sun is almost directly over your head, but at night you will discover a clear sky full of stars (no light pollution in the middle of the Atlantic!)

This hands-on adventure requires everyone to learn how to sail on Florette Our experienced crew will teach you what you need to know to cross the Atlantic safely you will learn/We will teach you /how to keep Florette on course , setting sails , if you are not afraid of hight claiming the rig to pack or set sails ,watch keeping and give a hand to the crew

There is time to relax but you will never get bored. No experience is required to take part in this trip, but a positive and helpful attitude is an absolute must. You must be sea-keeping, good physical fitness and adventurous. Captain Rony will put the team together and pay attention to have a good group structure.

The distance from Tenerife to Grenada its about 2900 NM sailing at 6 knots averages it will take us 20 days to cross the Atlantic. If we keep this pace we might spend a few days visting Islands enrout.Destination Port is Grenada with Port Louis... Time to relax and discover this beautiful Caribbean island and celebrate a successful crossing
